

TERMS OF USE

Use of the Laboratorium Media AG website is permitted in accordance with the following provisions:

Up-to-dateness of the Internet pages

All contents of our websites have been carefully compiled and are updated at irregular intervals. The website is subject to constant changes and additions, which serve to update and enrich the information and functions offered. Nevertheless, errors (e.g. technical malfunctions, falsification by unauthorized third parties) may occur. We therefore accept no responsibility for the accuracy, completeness and timeliness of the content provided. This also applies to information on external Internet sites to which we refer in our website through links. We do not adopt the contents presented there as our own.

Copyrights

The content and structure of our website are protected by copyright. The reproduction of information or data, in particular the use of texts, parts of texts or images requires prior consent. The user may use the contents only within the framework of the offered functionalities for his personal use. He does not acquire any rights to the contents or programs. Links to our website are only permitted with our prior consent. We do not take any responsibility for representations, contents or any connection to our institute in web pages of third parties.

Trademarks and logos

The trademarks and logos used on this website are protected. It is not permitted to use these trademarks or logos without prior consent.